'Animal, Myth, Magic' Two-Person Show Upstairs

Giant frogs eating the Pasadena Freeway live next to a feminine sprite sporting a spiky dress of invasive water chestnut seeds. These apparitions and a host of other what ifs make up a group show of whimsical, fantastic and sci-fi creatures in all media for the Greene County Council on the Arts first exhibit of 2013: "Visitors, Visitations, Visions." On display Jan. 26 through March 9, the works in this show include Polly Law's collage creations, Dave Channin's fanciful paintings, and Kimberly Glatz' liquid swirls among others.

"Animal, Myth, Magic," a two person show in the upstairs gallery, features self-taught artist Fred Adell's paired paintings and sculptures of animals with Palenville artist Elin Menzies' paintings on the personal and mythological relationship between humans and animals.

"The animals in my paintings often have great powers that they use for helping humans, especially for healing or protection," says Menzies. "I also see them as our bridge to spirituality through nature. When I paint I often feel the connection to the people who made those first marks so long ago."

City dweller Fred Adell's fascination with the animal world was nurtured in childhood with frequent visits to the zoo and natural history museums. His acrylic paintings and corresponding paper mache studies explore the observed species and its behavior as well as the formal elements of the work in two and three dimensions.

Make a New Year's resolution to indulge your imagination and immerse yourself in improbable worlds. Meet the artists at an opening reception on Saturday, Jan. 26 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Greene County Council on the Arts, Catskill Gallery at 398 Main Street. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call 518-943-3400 or visit www.greenearts.org.

Auditions Announced for New York State Summer School of the Arts

Auditions for the 2013 New York State Summer School of the Arts (NYSSSA) begin on January 5 and are held throughout New York State through March 10. A complete schedule of audition sites, application materials and program information is now available on the NYSSSA website at www.occ.nysed.gov/nysssa.

Each year, more than 425 of New York State's most talented high school students study with some of the world's foremost artists in the visual and performing arts. To participate, students are accepted into the schools through a competitive audition process conducted by artistic staff. Tuition rates are maintained at a modest level and tuition assistance is available, enabling every student who qualifies the opportunity to participate in this life-changing program.

NYSSSA is a program of the New York State Education Department. Founded in 1970, NYSSSA assists young artists in planning professional careers in the visual and performing arts. Four weeks of intensive work and interaction with internationally acclaimed artists and performing arts companies, such as the New York City Ballet and the Philadelphia Orchestra, give students a unique opportunity to experience the rigors of their chosen arts field.

NYSSSA serves an important need to foster and enhance the artistic abilities of the state's most gifted young artists regardless of race, religion or economic status. Follow-up studies on the program have identified former students who now hold positions within top professional companies around the world.

The School of Ballet: June 23 – July 20 at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs. Program is directed by New York City Ballet (NYCB) Principal Dancers Jenifer Ringer and Daniel Ulbricht and provides a professional experience for 60 of New York State's most gifted young dancers. Through tickets provided by the Saratoga Performing Arts Center (SPAC), students attend all of the New York City Ballet performances and other guest company performances at SPAC and receive daily instruction from internationally acclaimed guest artists.

The School of Choral Studies: June 30 – July 28 at SUNY Fredonia. Offers students an opportunity for concentrated study in individual voice instruction, diction, theory, ear training, music history, and musical theatre. Students also participate in the NYSSSA Choir, under the direction of Dr. Hugh Ferguson Floyd, a nationally acclaimed choral director and performer. The program includes a daily choral rehearsal, private voice instruction, and intensive classes in musicianship, musical theatre and opera scenes, as well as public performance opportunities at the college and at the famed Chautauqua Institution.

The School of Dance: July 21 – August 17 at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs. Under the direction of Carolyn Adams, former Paul Taylor Principal Dancer, students study with a diverse faculty of nationally acclaimed dancers and choreographers. Students take daily classes in Limon, Graham, Horton, Cunningham and Taylor technique, as well composition work, repertory, and performance. Students also work with well-known companies and choreographers-in-residence such as Robert Battle and Danny Grossman.

The School of Media Arts: June 30 – July 27 at SUNY Oswego. Directed by Robert Harris, a nationally known media educator and videographer. Curriculum consists of a review of media fundamentals, instruction in new techniques and processes, instruction in aesthetics, surveys of contemporary work, trends and ideas, and an immersion in production work in the areas of film, digital and chemical photography, video, and computer arts.

The School of Orchestral Studies: July 28 – August 24 at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs. Under the direction of Maestro Luis Biava, former conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra and current Conductor of the Temple University Symphony Orchestra and the Temple University Youth Chamber Orchestra. The School of Orchestral Studies has a unique partnership with the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, providing students with an opportunity to study with the world-class musicians of the Philadelphia Orchestra and attend performances at SPAC, while living and working in a professional environment as members of a symphony orchestra.

The School of Theatre: July 2013 (dates and location TBA). Provides students with intensive instruction in acting, movement, improvisation and voice, working side by side with a faculty from the nationally known, New York City-based Circle East Theatre Company. Under the Artistic Direction of Peg Denithorne, daily classes include acting, improvisation, scene study, voice, and movement, along with guest artist workshops in stage combat, mask work, Shakespeare, playwriting, tango, directing, and acting technique.

The School of Visual Arts: June 29 – July 27 at SUNY Fredonia. Directed by acclaimed artist and Metropolitan Museum of Art Educator, Randy Williams, students work in sculpture studies, mixed media, figure studies, printmaking, drawing and painting, landscape drawing and painting and figure sculpture under the direction of noted exhibiting artists and educators. The program includes drawing and painting from live models, 3-dimensional installations, modeling life-size objects in clay, practice with printmaking techniques and field trips.

Mulgrew Miller Trio to Perform in Windham

Come to a special Martin Luther King Weekend Jazz Concert on Saturday, Jan. 19 at 8 p.m. when the Windham Chamber Music Festival presents the great Mulgrew Miller Trio at the Windham Civic Centre Concert Hall 5379 Main Street (Route 23) in Windham.

The great American jazz pianist Mulgrew Miller was born in Mississippi into a childhood filled with early musical experiences, playing gospel music in his church and R&B and Blues at dances. Mulgrew was constantly noodling jazz piano and formed a trio in high school that played cocktail parties. Miller admits that they didn't really know what they were doing and were merely "approaching jazz". He set his mind on definitely becoming a jazz pianist after seeing Oscar Peterson on television. "It was a life changing event. I knew right then that I would be a jazz pianist."

Much of Miller's playing has the same technical prowess so often connected with Peterson, and he currently maintains one of the busiest trios in jazz with Ivan Taylor on bass and Rodney Green on drums. He has released four albums to date and, in 2006, he was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Performing Arts at Lafayette College's 171st commencement exercises. He currently resides in Easton, PA and serves as the Director of Jazz Studies at William Paterson University.

Ivan Taylor, born in Chicago and has been playing the bass since he was nine years old. He had an illustrious high school career and was a star performer at the 2002 Essentially Ellington Competition. At the competition, Wynton Marsalis encouraged him to enroll in the Julliard School of Music. In addition to touring with Miller's trio and sextet, Ivan plays with Soul Cycle and the Julliard Jazz Orchestra and studies with Ron Carter.

Rodney Green grew up in Philadelphia where he was surrounded by gospel music at home and in the church where his father was a preacher and organist and his mother sang in the choir. Before long the young musician started sneaking out to local clubs to hear live music and play gigs. By age 17, Green, still in high school, was traveling and playing internationally. He later moved to New York and performed with the likes of Christian McBride, Mulgrew

Miller, Diana Krall, Wynton Marsalis, Ravi Coltrane, George Benson, Abby Lincoln, Herbie Hancock, Dianne Reeves, and many others.

Reservations can be made at 518-734-3868 or by email at info@windhammusic.com. Tickets (cash or check only) are $25; Seniors (65+): $22 and Contributors: $20. Students (6-22) are admitted to all concerts for $5.

Tickets can also be purchased in Windham at the Catskill Mountain Country Store, Carole's Gift Emporium, and the Windham Public Library.

The 2013 Season is made possible in part with public funds administered by the Greene County Council on the Arts, as well as with foundation support from the Willow Springs Foundation, the Windham Chapter of the Catskill Mountain Foundation and the Peter and Cynthia Kellogg Foundation. For more information please visit the Windham Chamber Music Festival website at www.windhammusic.com.

'Faces of Columbia County' A Portrait Project by Cynthia Mulvaney

Cynthia Mulvaney, recipient of the 2012 Linda Arnaud Individual Artist Award, presents her series of 36 oil portraits featuring many of the diverse and interesting residents of Columbia County in an exhibit at the Columbia County Chamber of Commerce n Hudson Jan. 12 through March 15.

Getting to know so many wonderful people during her years in Columbia County, Mulvaney felt that everyone she met had interesting stories about their lives.

"You may pass someone on the street and see them as 'the mailman' or 'my neighbor' but never know that that person is also an opera singer or one of the first-ever Pan Am stewardesses," she said, adding "We're all interconnected in our lives here – each individual is a thread and when these individual threads are woven together they create the beautiful tapestry which is our community."

Her goal was to create a visual and written story of these great people who live in the area and, through all of their portraits, learn how important it is to look past the surface and take the time to get to know our neighbors.

The Columbia County Chamber of Commerce gallery is located at 1 North Front Street, Hudson NY. Visit www.columbiachamber-ny.com or www.facesofcolumbiacounty.webs.com for more information.

‘Diversity in Watercolors,’ Solo Show by Otto Miranda

Columbia Greene Community College will host an exhibit of watercolors by Otto Miranda Jr. from Jan. 1 through Feb. 26 at its Kaaterskill Gallery, located in the main Library building.

Miranda, a resident of Dutchess County, taught himself the art of watercolor painting after retiring from the construction business in 2000. He has also attended classes with Betsy Jacaruso of Rhinebeck and Bill Carbone of Athens and has shown his work at various locations in Columbia, Greene and Dutchess counties. His location close to the Hudson River is a constant inspiration, he says.

“Lots of my inspiration to paint comes from the Hudson Valley’s beautiful flowers and wonderful bridges, buildings and landscapes,” Miranda says. “It is spectacular to live a half mile from the river.”

Watercolor painting keeps his mind active and he likes to challenge himself with a wide diversity of subjects: flowers, birds, landscapes, animals and aquatic life.

Miranda is a member of the Northeast Watercolor Society and of both the Columbia County and Greene County Councils on the Arts.

Kaaterskill Gallery is open Monday through Thursday 8AM to 8PM, Fridays 8AM to 5PM and weekends Noon to 5PM. The public is invited to an opening reception on Jan. 3, 5 to 7 p.m. Light refreshments will be served.

Masters on Main Street Round 6

‘The Glow Show’ on Catskill Main Street

Don’t miss the unveiling of Masters on Main Street’s window exhibition, “The Glow Show”- artists using light, screens and projections on Sunday, Feb. 24 at 6:30 p.m. Curated by photographer Jonathan Wang, this series is meant to brighten the darkest months of the year and compliment the 3rd Annual Catskill Film and Video Festival. Start your evening sidewalk tour outside the Community Theater, 373 Main Street, following the opening day of the Festival.

Designed to show off the potential of Catskill’s streetscape, Masters on Main Street started in February 2010 showing work by over 100 artists from more than 35 top studio programs around the country in addition to collaborations with the artists from Occupy with Art and the New York Foundation for the Arts. The current round will include primarily installation work from a national roster and Hudson Valley artists. This exhibit presents light as a metaphor for enlightenment, knowledge, spirit, warmth.

Invited artist Charles Lindsay’s Carbon installation proposes that we take our bits of carbon and head for the next habitable planet. His work includes invented photographic processes, video, fiber optics, repurposed military hardware, motion detectors and sound in a compelling sculptural installation. Exhibitors may project onto the sidewalk, offer a peephole to view an illuminated world within, use the window as a screen, present on a monitor or TV or use light as the subject and medium.

Jonathan Wang is an interdisciplinary artist who recently moved to Columbia County. His work revolves around popular photographic/video practices, spectacle and socio-spatial imaginaries. Wang was also the founder and director of FOTO Project Space, a non-profit artist-run photography space in Cape Town, South Africa that serves as a flexible platform for disadvantaged township-based artists.

The Glow Show will be on view through April, 2013. Contact fawn@greenearts.org for more information or call 518/943-3400. Check for updates at greenearts.org.

'Furgary: the Hudson Boat Club' Exhibit at CCCA

The first CCCA show of 2013 highlights a special part of the history of Hudson, The 'Furgary Boat Club'. The 'furgary', a group of hand-built structures on the banks of the Hudson, have been owned and used by area residents for almost 100 years.

In recent months, there has been controversy over ownership and use of the property. In their desire to stay on in the cabins and shacks – some with decks and docks, others with impromptu boat slips – some refer to a legal middle ground written into 18th-century laws that allowed unauthorized settlement in swamp areas between municipal lands and the river. Squatters' rights were also cited as a reason to allow the structures and inhabitants to continue at the location. The cabins and shacks are now vacant, waiting for the final decision of their fate to be made.

These buildings will always be a part of Hudson's rich history and, on Jan. 19, 31 area artists will display work they have created to commemorate the architecture and views of the Furgary landscape.

Presented at the CCCA Gallery, 209 Warren Street in Hudson, these works will be on display from through March 15 with a special opening reception Saturday, January 19 from 5 to 7 p.m. The gallery is open Wednesday thru Friday 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Saturday 1 to 5 p.m. Visit www.artscolumbia.org or call 518-671-6213 for more information.

Broderick Fine Art Gallery Features Giorgini and Blum

Showing through Jan. 26 at the Broderick Fine Art Gallery, upstairs at Ruby's Hotel and Restaurant in Freehold, is the work of Frank Giorgini featuring large ceramic wall plaques and musical ceramic sculptures based on his udu drums.

Giorgini is considered the designer of the modern adaptation of the traditional Nigerian side hole pot drum known as udu. His drums are used by the worlds leading percussionists and have been featured in the music of Miles Davis, Sting, Paul Simon, Buena Vista Social Club and many more.

Giorgini's large 20x20-inch ceramic wall plaques are fired in a raku style depicting stylized images of animals in surreal settings. He taught architectural tile design at Parsons School of Design in NYC for 15 years, authored the book "Handmade Tiles" and has designed and fabricated ceramic murals for several subway and public art projects in NYC.

From Feb. 2 through March 16, the gallery will showcase the abstract expressionist paintings of Naomi Blum in an exhibit called "Natural Abstraction."

Blum and her husband have divided their time for the past 25 years between Windham and New York City. Landscapes have become the major subject matter of her paintings because of the inspiration she receives from the natural beauty of the Northern Catskills.

Her formal art training includes a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree in Painting and Art Education from the College of New Rochelle and a Master of Art from the New School of Social Research. She has worked as an artist since 1977, exhibiting and selling her paintings locally, nationally, and internationally winning many awards in Columbia and Greene County

2013 Sunday Salons at the Thomas Cole Site

Do we inhabit scary, thrilling scenery? Was Thomas Cole really an interior decorator? Do you want to hear an "epic" tale and meet American art's premier art historian?

Come to the Thomas Cole National Historic Site on Sunday afternoons to learn more about these and other topics at the popular series of talks called Sunday Salons. Each event features a guest speaker leading a discussion on a topic relating to the Hudson River School, America's first major art movement. After the talk, enjoy some wine, cheese, and lively conversation.

It happens on Sundays once a month January through April at 2 p.m. Tickets are $9 per person or $7 for members, and admission is first-come-first-served. It is recommended that you arrive 15 minutes early to get a seat. The Thomas Cole site is at 218 Spring Street in Catskill, New York. More information is at 518-943-7465 or www.thomascole.org.

Kevin J. Avery

"Cole and the American Revolution in Landscape"

Scenery-loving Americans today would be surprised to learn that our wilderness was not always our Mecca, but our dread. Thomas Cole and many of his followers of the Hudson River School made it a place of thrills and yearning, depicting the dreadful expressly to thrill the viewer. But their success depended upon a culture conditioned to welcome that thrill thanks to the distance that the Industrial Revolution put between people and the natural world. Dr. Kevin Avery, Senior Research Scholar of The Metropolitan Museum of Art, addresses the implications of the Cole revolution in American art, and how his colleague, Asher B. Durand, and his followers both sustained and modified his vision.

Jean Dunbar

"Thomas Cole and the Decorative Arts: Career & Home"

Thomas Cole is known for his sweeping American landscapes and few artists remain more firmly associated with the outdoors. Yet, few, if any, 19th-century painters had wider experience with interior decoration. In Sunday Salon at Thomas Cole National Historic Site.

England, young Cole trained for a career in color block-printing. He soon gained experience creating textiles, wallpaper, floor coverings, and painted "fancy" furnishings that, in turn, educated and influenced his painting. Historic interiors consultant Dr. Jean Dunbar, who has been researching Thomas Cole's home and studio since 2008, shares fascinating new discoveries about Cole's home that reveal that Cole, a decorative artist first, remained a decorative artist throughout his career.

Christopher N. Phillips

"What Made Cole Epic?"

Thomas Cole is remembered primarily for his landscapes, but throughout his career he aimed to develop an epic art for America. This new aesthetic blended landscape, mythology, history, religion, and literature, and through works such as The Course of Empire and Prometheus Bound the concept captured the imaginations of Cole's contemporaries. In fact, Cole's art brought the term "epic" into American art criticism. Join Dr. Christopher N. Phillips, Assistant Professor of English at Lafayette College and author of "Epic in American Culture: Settlement to Reconstruction", for a Salon that will focus on the development of Cole's career as an epic painter and his early reception in that light. Book signing afterwards.

Barbara Novak

"Pioneer in American Art History"

Barbara Novak is one of America's premier art historians. Breaking into the world of American art history in the 1950s, when few professors taught the topic, Dr. Novak, Helen Goodhart Altschul Professor of Art History Emerita at Barnard College and Columbia University, spent the next 40 years creating a foundation for the study of American art history through her seminal books and teaching, inspiring generations of students to pursue remarkable careers in academic and museum life. In this Salon, six speakers from a range of fields reveal through their personal stories the wide sweep of Dr. Novak's influence as a scholar and mentor. Dr. Novak will offer her remarks at the end of the Salon.

The Thomas Cole National Historic Site is a non-profit organization that preserves and interprets the home and studios of Thomas Cole, the founder of the Hudson River School of painting, the nation's first art movement. Cole's profound influence on America's cultural landscape inspires us to engage broad audiences through innovative educational programs that are relevant today. The Main House and Old Studio are open by guided tour from May through October, Wednesday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and at other times by appointment. Lectures and other programs take place throughout the year.

New Program Schedule and Call for Volunteers

WGXC 90.7-FM, a community radio station serving Greene and Columbia counties, will enter its second year of FM broadcast on Feb. 26. To commemorate this significant event, the station is in the process of a revising its program schedule, and actively soliciting applications from the public. The deadline to submit applications for consideration is Jan. 10.

WGXC is a program of the media-arts organization free103point9. The station seeks to offer residents of the twin counties access to a unique forum, which re-envisioned radio as an innovative platform for local participation. In practice, this means voices often marginalized or excluded from commercial media populate the diverse range of WGXC's programming, including a daily slot for youth-produced and youth-friendly programming. The station also features weekly Spanish, Bengali and Haitian Creole language programs.

WGXC offers both talk and music programming, and hosts focus on issues of local and global significance. Tuning in on any random day, one might hear 1960s psychedelic B-sides, or the voices and stories of incarcerated prisoners; children singing their favorite songs live over the airwaves, or interviews with artists, politicians, activists, and residents of the region speaking out about community events, their lives and ideas.

WGXC 90.7-FM now operates three studios for use in the production of its programs. Beginning in December 2010, prior to FM broadcast, programmers were producing shows in the bustling Hudson studio, located at 704 Columbia St. in Hudson. That studio is open Sunday through Friday to the public. This is the most trafficked of the station's three studios, and is well-equipped for both live radio and production.

In mid-2011, WGXC added a new studio in the Catskill

Community Center, located at 344 Main St. in downtown Catskill. Its idiosyncratic construction, spearheaded by Radio Council Member and Catskill-based artist Matt Bua, is a bright exercise in organized chaos. The studio is fully visible from the Community Center's front window, allowing passersby to view radio-making in action.

WGXC's Acra studio, located in the Wave Farm Study Center opened in June 2012 and is the base of operations for free103point9's programs. WGXC's Saturday and overnight programming – midnight to six a.m. every day – originates from its Acra studio. During these hours, programming focuses on experimental sound and Transmission Arts, defined as artists using the electromagnetic spectrum – the airwaves – as their creative medium.

Throughout 2012, the young station has seen significant growth and development. In February, the station's staff expanded to include Station Manager and News Director Lynn Sloneker, and Outreach Coordinator Jess Puglisi. Meanwhile, former Station Manager Sara Kendall transitioned into the role of Workshops and Trainings Coordinator and began the work developing a series of workshops and media trainings for community youth and adults. Programs included an introduction to audio editing at the Cairo Public Library and an all-day Open Air Skill Share in September, featuring workshops for children and adults at the Catskill Community Center.

Under the stewardship of Acting Program Director Shannekia McIntosh, WGXC will develop its 2013 program schedule, which will include programs from the first two years, and those selected from the incoming batch of applications.

WGXC strives to provide access to all perspectives and topics. Whatever your area of expertise, WGXC wants to help you bring it to the world at large. Are you an artist, hunter, mechanic, medical professional, librarian, clerk, student, or retiree? Are you engaged in or curious about local civic affairs? Do you want to share your award-winning pie recipes, or tips on how to grow tomatoes? There is room for you on WGXC 90.7-FM. Applications

WGXC 90.7-FM Volunteer Meetings

Tuesday, January 8 from 6-8 p.m. at the Catskill Community Center at 344 Main Street in Catskill, NY;
Thursday, February 7 from 6-8 p.m. at the Hudson Studio at 704 Columbia Street in Hudson, NY.
Tuesday, March 5 from 6-8 p.m. at the Catskill Community Center.

All volunteers, programmers, members and curious folks are invited to attend WGXC volunteer meetings. This is where you want to be if you'd like to get involved with WGXC by contributing your audio or voice to the airwaves. Learn how to participate in WGXC events, get familiar with programs and equipment common in the WGXC-sphere, score quality time with the WGXC staff in a leisurely environment and participate in targeted workgroups.

These are prime opportunities for members of the public to engage in Greene and Columbia counties' local community radio station, WGXC 90.7-FM. All ages are welcome, and you don't need radio experience or familiarity with the station to attend. Volunteer tasks at WGXC run the gamut from simple clerical and cleaning duties to specialized technical work, to audio production and website updating. If you're looking to meet some people and find out how a radio station works, we hope you will drop by.

Contact information for all events is Jess Puglisi, Outreach Coordinator for WGXC 90.7-FM. Jess@wgxc.org, or the Hudson Studio at 518-697-7400.

Applications for New Programs on WGXC 90.7-FM

Due: January 10

WGXC 90.7-FM is overhauling its program schedule in time for its second year of FM broadcast, in late February. All programs on WGXC are the product of volunteer programmers, using their expertise and interests guide the content of the community airwaves. A range of perspectives and sounds are sought. The deadline for applications for new programs will be Thursday, Jan. 10. WGXC is seeking applications for all types of programs – music, talk, morning and afternoon hosts, etc. To apply, get in touch with Program Director Shannekia McIntosh at Shannekia@wgxc.org, or Station Manager Lynn@wgxc.org.

for the new program schedule can be obtained at wgxc.org, or by dropping by the Hudson Studio Monday through Friday, between the hours of 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. A launch party will accompany the schedule's unveiling, and will be open to the public at a location and date to be determined and announced on air, and at wgxc.org. We look forward to seeing you there.

WGXC is made possible in part with public funds from the Greene County Legislature through the Greene County Cultural Fund, administered in Greene County by the Greene County Council on the Arts.

2012 Beaux Arts Ball at Hunter Mountain - all photos by Rob Sherman

December 28, 2012

Dear Friends,

In just a few short months we will be celebrating spring at the 25th Annual Beaux Arts Ball at Hunter Mountain. Plan to join us on April 6, 2013 for what has been billed "THE party of the year!"

The Beaux Arts Ball is the Arts Council's primary fund raising event, supporting the many diverse and varied programs we provide throughout the year. As with the addition of Masters on Main, we continually strive to keep the arts alive and meaningful in our communities as well as draw attention to the important contribution of the arts in Greene County. We are proud of our accomplishments over the past 37 years.

Please consider purchasing a benefactor table. Remember, this is the Arts Council's major fundraiser of the year. By generously supporting us at the benefactor level, you are supporting the indispensable educational and community resource programs offered by the Greene County Council on the Arts. In these uncertain economic times, we need your support more than ever to keep the arts alive in Greene County.

Please let us hear from you by January 26th to be listed in the invitation as well as in the evening's program. As a benefactor, you will also be prominently recognized in all our press releases and promotional materials, including Arts Alive. In addition, we will provide guaranteed preferred seating for you and your guests. Should you have any questions, please contact Kay Stamer, Executive Director of the Greene County Council on the Arts at 518-943-3400 or via email at gcca@greenearts.org.

Thank you for your support. We look forward to greeting you on April 6.

With warmest regards,

David and Joan Stutzky
