

Greene County Council on the Arts Welcomes New Executive Director

The Greene County Council on the Arts is pleased to announce Marline A. Martin as its new Executive Director following an executive director search process. She began her tenure on July 9, 2018. Martin who has a career snanning.

Martin, who has a career spanning Martin, who has a career spanning more than 20 years, held leadership posi-tions at or has been affiliated with some of New York's leading arts and cultural organizations including Mind-Builders Creative Arts Center, The Children's Art Carnival, TRANSART & Cultural Services, Urban Dance Collective, the Caribbean Cultural Center and While We Are Still Here.

Cultural Center and While We Are Still Here. For the past seven years, Marline has served as the Executive Director of the LeRoy Neiman Art Center in Harlem. Marline holds a Master of Fine Arts degree from the City College of New York, a graduate certificate in Arts Management from Columbia University and a graduate diploma in International Law & Relations from the University of the West Indies. She is also an artist, curator and writer. Her dedication to the arts has received major recognition and awards including the Harlem Women of Excellence Award, Zeta Phi Beta/ Five Pearls Foundation Award and Arts Mid-Hudson Individual Artist Award. Marline also has a long history with the New York State Council on the Arts as a panelist and grantee through her work

Marine also has a long history with the New York State Council on the Arts as a panelist and grantee through her work with respective organizations. "We are elated to engage a leader for the organization with Marline's depth of experience in arts administration," says Bill Deane, GCCA's Board President and chair of the search committee. "We are grateful to Kay Stamer, who did terrific work strengthening the organization. Marlin succeeds Kay Stamer, who served as Executive Director since her appointment in 1982 and left the organization in June 2018. She takes on the role at a time of great change and challenge when local arts agencies across New York State are evolving towards regional activities benefiting artists, arts organizations and diverse communities. Established 42 years ago, the Council approaches the next step in its evolution as an organization with a sense of renewed mission and with a sense of renewed mission and purpose and it begins its journey towards the next 42 years. This new journey includes regionalizing its efforts on the arts by increasing its outreach to the neighboring Columbia and Schoharie counties. Ms. Martin will work to expand the Arts Council's presence, foster and build relationships and generate new opportunities for artists, arts organiza-tions and the arts community in all three counties. counties ties. "The GCCA has a remarkable history "The GCCA has a remarkable history of celebrating and supporting the arts," states Martin. "I am looking forward to doing ground-breaking work as its new Executive Director working with board, staff, and the communities we serve. I hope to contribute to its growth and relevance as GCCA leaps into a bright new future."

GCCA Presents NO NUDES NO SUNSETS A Photography Exhibition

Greene County Council on the Arts (GCCA) debuts its first photography-only exhibition in several years "No Nudes No Sunsets," on view in the entire two-floor gallery through September 22, 2018. While photography was firmly estab-lished as a legitimate art form many decades ago, the advent of smartphones, apps like Instagram, and digital media have made photography more accessible and, some would say, diluted. This exhi-bition provides an opportunity for the community to view photos from local photographers from the specific point of view of curator Alon Koppel (@alon on Instagram). The title No Nudes No Sunsets refers to what Koppel, a longtime photographer, did not want the exhibition to be about. Koppel chose 25 photographers in total, reflecting a wide variety of photographer sites that are "fresh, interesting, and involve some method of thinking about contemporary image-making." JACK WALLS brings the BRIGHT FUTURE GROUP SHOW WORKS ON PAPER TO GREENE COUNTY COUNCIL ON THE ARTS

Jack Walls brings his BRIGHT FUTURE GROUP to Greene County Council on the Arts (GCCA) for "The Bright Future Group Show, Works on Paper," on view September 29 through November 10, 2018 in Catskill, NY. Who is Jack Walls? What is the BRIGHT FUTURE GROUP? Chicago-born Jack Walls is a painter, writer, poet, performer, and a vital part of the New York art scene for more than thirty years. Through the trepidatious days of downtown Manhattan in the 80's, the arty inde-pendent film movement of the mid 90's, right through to the late 90's and the aughts-which spawned a reck-less crew of artists headed by Ryan McGinley, Dan Colen and the late Dash Snow (each cites Walls as an influence)-Walls' decades spanning career is nothing short of miraculous. Walls continues to inspire younger artists with the BRIGHT FUTURE Walls continues to inspire younger artists with the BRIGHT FUTURE GROUP, a loose collective of artists first brought together by Walls in the summer of 2017 for an exhibition in the back gallery of Basilica Hudson. The second BRIGHT FUTURE GROUP show will take place in the gallery of Gree Greene County Council on the Arts. The BRIGHT FUTURE GROUP includes young emerging artists Simeon Amstutz Marty Katzoff, Becca Van Kollenburg, Elbert Perez, and Louise Smith, who will display their works on paper alongside NYC downtown scene veterans Jack Walls and David Aron for the Bright Future Group Show, a sign of hope not subscribing to any politics. Meet the artists and Jack Walls at the opening reception for the Bright Future Group Show, works on Paper on Saturday, September 29, 2018 from 6:00 to 8:00 pm. The event is free and open to the public. The Greene County Council on the Arts Gallery is located at 398 Main Street, Catskill NY. A Message from BILL DEANE,

GCCA President of the Board of Directors

Welcome to Marline A. Martin, our new Executive Director. She brings to GCCA many years of related experience and a fresh look at how we function. She will lead us along the path of our regionalization program. The search for Marline began in February, 2018 and she joined us on July 9. Special thanks to the search committee including Nancey Rosensweig, Laura Segall, Larry Krajeski, Zach Feuer and Heather Jassy. There were many meetings and interviews and we worked trielessly to get the job done. Of course, the work of the Board continues. We are currently focusing on finalization of our Strategic Plan and continuing our rebranding program that our rebranding program that will be reflective of the services we provide and our regional outreach. We would welcome the opportunity to expand our Board to have more representation from Columbia and Schoharie Counties. You don't have to go very far to enjoy the arts if you live or visit Greene, Columbia or Schoharie Counties. I continue to be amazed at the opportu-nities that are available. Not a weekend goes by, during the nities that are available. Not a weekend goes by, during the summer months especially, where there aren't multiple choices for performing arts throughout the region. Helen and I recently spent a wonderful evening enjoying the performance at the Music and Art Center of Greene County at their Grazhda Concert Hall, which by the way, also contains a wonderful Art Gallery of works of Ukrainian Artists. We were treated Ukrainian Artists. We were treated to a Concert celebrating the 80th Birthday of Ukrainian Composer Myroslav Skoryk. Selections for the violin- Nazar Pylatiuk, piano - Volodymyr Vynnytsky and cello - Natalia Khoma were played with my favorite being The Carpathian Rhapsody. Myroslav even got into the act playing a series of Jazz pieces on the piano with Volodymyr. Thanks to the hard work of Natalia Sonewtsky and her Volodymyr. Thanks to the hard work of Natalia Sonevytsky and her Board to present the 2018 Summer Concert Season (36th year). You can learn more about this wonderful venue and their programs at www. 2018 GCCA COMMUNITY ARTS GRANT NEWS 2018 DEC Grant Individual Artist Update: GREENE COUNTY'S RUTH LEONARD

The 2018 Greene County Individual Artist Grant was awarded Individual Artist Grant was awarded to artist Ruth Leonard to pursue the Flower Farm Project. Ms. Leonard states: "At the heart of the project is the farm itself: as site of natural and cultivated beauty; as a work-place and source of livelhood; as common ground for all those who keep it functioning." In her project, Ms. Leonard explores motifs on a local flower farm through drawing. local flower farm through drawing, mixed media, and photography. Now at the project's mid-point Ms. Leonard has pursued sketchbook drawings, large scale works, and photography, which records the season cycle of labor and growth.

She shares with the farm community her process of drawing, involving layering materials such as graphite, watercolor, conte crayon, charcoal, pastel, colored pencil and gouache. "Among the images I have found interesting are row-upon-row of flowers and furrows, botanical observations, abstraction patterns formed by tire tracks, the succession of young seedlings from green-houses, and field plantings and the tasks of people that keep the farm functioning," says Leonard. "In the next few months I plan to work further on drawings I have begun and start new ones. I will continue to connect with the farm community, sharing our work and lives." In August she scheduled a day on the farm where she was joined in art making by neighbors, friends and the farm community. A showing of Leonard's artwork from the Flower Farm project will be displayed at the Cairo Public Library; the exhibition date will be announced soon. This event is made possible, in part, with public funds from the Decentralization Program of the NYS Council on the Arts, admin-istered in Greene County by the Greene County Council on the Arts through the Community Arts Grants program.

These events are made possible, in part, with public funds from the Decentralization Program of the NYS Council on the Arts administered in Schoharie County by the Greene County Council on the Arts through the Community Arts Grants program. For more information on the NYSCA/DEC Community Arts Grant Program contact Dennis Shaw, Schoharie Arts Grants Coordinator at schohariegrants@gmail.com.

Event season continues in Schoharie County and every week-end seems a little busier than the one before with festivals, theater and concerts happening all over the county. Many of these events taking place in Schoharie County this summer are made possible, in part, with public funds from the NYS Council on the Arts Decentralization Program, administered in Schoharie County by the Greene County Council on the Arts through the Community Arts Grants Fund. In May The Depot Lane Singers, now known as the Schoharie Valley Singers with their newly designated non-profit 501C3 status, began their 29th season with their pugely successful spring concert "Back to Broadway? Also in May Panther Creek Arts held its annual Tiny Arts in a Tiny Town arts festival in West Fulton drawing crowds from all over Schoharie County and beyond for world class music, art, sculpture, storytelling, theater workshops, and locally made foods/beverages, and communty.

The Richmondville Historical Society kicked off their 10° season of their Music at the Mill concert series at the Bunn Mill in June with Paul Petersen and Chuck Starks performing they're unique brand of contemporary improv' on piano and bass while the Bunn Mills water wheel was busy churning handmade ice cream. June also saw a well-received performance by Rusticator at the Mill with their eclectic mix of jazz inflected fiddle playing and three part harmonies. Sonny Ochs year round monthly concert series continued bringing in well-known folk artists including Mike Agranoff, Hudson Valley Sally and Josh White Jr. The pace really pick up in July with The Jefferson Historical Society's Free Music and More Concert Series with performances by The Blues Maneuver and 19th Century Songs and Stories of Upstate New York by Dave Ruch. In my role as a producer, engineer and composer, I have met and worked with some of the greatest musicians in contemporary music. I'm gratified to be joined by some of the very best of them on this project of mostly original compositions. The players have all contributed so much to the execution and vision that to me this is a true collaboration of spirit and skill. I can't imagine a single song in this collection without the individual flavors of these masterful players. The ensemble includes Scott Petito, Jack DeJohnette, Peter Erskine, Simon Phillips, Omar Hakim, Bob Mintzer, Mike Mainieri, Rachel Z, David Sancious, Warren Bernhardt, Chris Pasin, David Spinozza and Bashiri Johnson.

contains the earliest-known interior decorative painting by an American artist, and its bold features reveal an added dimension to Cole's use of and thinking about color. All works are presented in a new site-specific othext, in which they have never-before been shown, and care-fully placed to be in conversation with Cole and the unique historic rooms and grounds of the 19th-century artist's home and studios. The diverse projects on view examine color in relation to smell, sight, and taste, as well as music, emotion, science, abstraction, and the natural word. The contemporary artworks include an immersive site-specific light installation by Ann Veronica Janssens, a garden designed by Portia Munson, woodblock prints by Polly Apfelbaum, Carnera-Less-Videos by Julianne Swartz, an outdoor rainbow by Valerie Hammond, vibrant Radiation Explorations by Mildred Thompson, and monumental scaled works on linen by Jackie Saccocci. The artist Lisa Sandiz has created for the occasion an installation of sculpture and painting, combined with works from the Cole Site's collection by Emil Cole (Thomas Cole's daughter), and Anne Lindberg created a new site-specific thread installation of sculpture and painting, combined with works from the Cole Site's collection by Emil Cole (Thomas Cole's daughter), and Anne Lindberg created a new site-specific thread installation of homes. Chilly evenings have already announced the arrival of fall to the Hudson Valley and once again it is time for the Heritage Craft Fair at the Bronck Museum. On Sunday, September 30, 2018 from noon to Apm, the 355-year-old Dutch farmstead will open its ancient houses and venerable barms for the demonstration and sale of traditional American crafts. Throughout the houses, nettled beside the barms, on shaded porches and spread across the lawns, crafters will be offering for sale all manner of traditional hand-made goods. Sheep will graze in the shade of an oak tree. Raku pottery by Carolyn Duke.

It seems simple; take some earth and add water, then fire in an oven (kiln)... ceramics! It's one of the oldest arts that we know of, making functional and non-functional forms out of clay. And, like drawing, the hand of the maker is revealed in every piece. And yet, working with clay is not so simple. There's a lot of technical knowl-edge needed to build and successfully fire ceramic pieces; the density, viscosity, weight, moisture retention, air temperature... all of this comes into play when working with clay... and we haven't even begun to consider the world of glazes, which one can spend a lifetime on and never achieve complete mastery. Catskill Mountain Foundation's Kaaterskill Gallery presents Hold: A Celebration of Ceramic Bowls is on view September 15 through October 21, 2018 with the Artists Reception on September 15 from 5-8 pm. "Clay is an extremely versatile and fascinating material. It can be sculpted, manipulated and shaped into any form imaginable; then, with the application of immense heat, it can be changed into a state of permanence. Unlike other it enters the kiln; it is never fully within our control and outcomes are not guar-anteed. It is the investigation into the unknown, the potential of discovery and reward, that challenges artists to keep pushing beyond the boundaries." ...The Ceramics Bible, Louisa Taylor coming your way in September and October. A crumbling Liberal Arts College in rural New England is the setting for Chicago-area playwright Mickle Maher's "There is a Happiness That Morning Is", an unexpectedly raucous and joyously word-drunk celebration of art, ardor, academia. For twenty years, two professors have been carrying on a secret love affair while simultaneously lecturing on the poetry of William Blake - he on "Songs of Experience". But their classes today are going to be particularly challenging. Last night on the college quad, while conducting an impromptu al fresco lecture, the pair became so carried away while reading Blake aloud that they threw off their clothes and made mad, passionate love in full view of their students as well as the school's puritanical president. Now, desperate to salvage both their careers and their love, they need to convince a scan-dalized campus community that this to salvage both their careers and their love, they need to convince a scan-dalized campus community that this 'public showing' of their 'dew-dipped thighs' was the apotheosis of Blakean ecstasy or else suffer the conse-quences. Oh, and did we mention that the play is written, like Blake's poems, almost entirely in rhymed couplets? This is one set of lectures no student (or audience) in their rinter mind would This is one set of lectures no student (or audience) in their right mind would want to miss. "There is a Happiness That Morning Is" is directed by John Sowle, stars Molly Parker Myers, Brian Petti, and Steven Patterson, and plays Thursdays through Saturdays at 7:30 and Sundays at 2:00 from September 6-16. 6-16

Though she's deter-mined to maintain her independence, her son Boolie hires her a chauffeur, an African-American driver named Hoke Colburn. And while Daisy and Hoke's relationship gets off to a rocky start, they gradually forge an unbreakable friendship, one that transcends racial

23Arts Initiative returns to Windham this Labor Day Weekend for the world premiere of the specially-commissioned Swingin' the Songbook, a swingin' tip of the hat to Jazz's greatest benefactor, promoter and producer Norman Granz, whose collaborators included Jazz greats like Ella Fitzgerald, Louis Armstrong, Charlie Parker, and Dizzy Gillespie. In the same way that Granz collected a myriad of Jazz Giants and Young Lions and presented them in unexpected combinations, multi-instrumentalist Aaron Johnson leads a rotating cast of today's top jazz talents in Swingin' the Songbook on Saturday. September 1 at 8pm at the Windham Civic Centre Concert Hall, S37P NY23, Windham, NY. at 8pm at the Windham Civic Centre Concert Hall, 5379 NY-23, Windham, NY. Tickets for 23Arts' Swingin' the Songbook are available at www.23Arts. org, Carol's Country Store, the Windham Library, and at the Windham Civic Centre Concert Hall on the evening of the performance. Tickets are $22-$35 and attendees under age 18 are free admission. Featured in Johnson's Swingin the Songbook is the Catskill Jazz Factory Collective, a group of today's top jazz artists of varied backgrounds and artistic influ-ences including special guests vocalist Alexa Barchini and grandmaster trumpet legend Jon-Erik Kellso (Vince Giordano & the Nighthawks, the EarRegulars) as well as Nicole Glover, Ilya Lushtak, Gil Scott Chapman, Noah Jackson, Mark Lewandowski, Scott Lowrie and Charles Goold. The unique jam session format of this upcoming premiere hearkens back to Norman Granz's legendary "Jazz at the Philharmonic" concerts that toured internationally beginning in 1944. What began as a series of desegregated jam sessions at Los Angeles' Touville Club became "Jazz at the Philharmonic" after the original title, "A Jazz Concert at Philharmonic Auditorium" had been shortened for advertising supplements by the printer for the first official concert at Philharmonic auditorium in LA. Granz collected a myriad of Jazz Giants and Young Lions presented them onstage in an organized jam session format, pairing interesting combi-nations of musicians one might not have expected to hear together. The concerts began touring internationally from 1944 to 1957 and were recorded and released on notable labels including Mercury and Clef. Among various accolades, Granz' contribution to Jazz included the founding of 5 record labels (Clef, Verve, Pablo, Down Home and Norgran), recording legions of Jazz greats like Ella Fitzgerald, Louis Armstrong, Billie Holiday, Stan Getz, Charlie Parker, Dizzy Gillespie and Oscar Peterson. Leading Swingin the Songbook is Aaron Johnson, a Saxophonist and Scholar of Jazz History and Culture whose music and unrelenting energy have captivated listeners and musicians in a short period of time. A disciple of Charlie Parker and the Bebop era, Johnson is an artist possessing a wild musical imagination, a fearless heart and a probing intel-lect. He has lectured, given talks and moderated panels regarding the state of Jazz, its history, identity, culture and function at notable institutions such as New York University, Jazz at Lincoln Center, The National Jazz Museum of Harlem and the College of William and Mary (Williamsburg, Virginia). Aaron has appeared in concerts and jazz club settings as a sidemant to notable Jazz artists and rising stars such as Jonathan Batiste, Connie crothers, Buce Harris, Michael Mwenso, James Langtor's NY All Star Big Band and The Jimmy Halperin Quartet as well as leading his Quintet with Trumpeter

Dina Bursztyn & Julie Chase

Dina Bursztyn and Julie Chase met 23 years ago while both were attending a New Year's Eve party in Manhattan. Dina, originally from Mendoza, Argentina has been living in NYC since the T0's. Julie arrived from Nashville, Tennessee in 1996. Since that time, the two have been partners in life, art and more recently, in business, since 2005 when they established the Open Studio on Main Street in Catskill, in a storefront previously occupied by a fried chicken joint. Open Studio, as the name implies, is both a gallery and a working studio. While it is continuously changing as new work is added, the artists have been consistent with their original vision, which was to create a different sort of space - a hybrid - a place where one could buy affordable original artwork but also a good book, a wooden spoon, a finger puppet and other hand-crafted objects from around the world. The space and work reflects both of the artist's individual and collaborative expressions. They have defined it, among other hings, as "free range art". They are interested in breaking categories and linear hierarchical systems, in marrying cultures, times and ways ot thinking, often making a synthesis between the old and the new. While living in the Hudson Valley, both of the artist's work has been influenced by their surroundings, and they often incorporate elements they find when exploring their environs, such as driftwood and other river debris, sticks, seeds and other assorted miscellanea. They are collectors of a wide variety of found objects of a wide variety of found objects and devoted explorers of the area. Borrowing a line from the Woodstock Times about the artists: "Their individual and collaborative expressions of creative leave on doubt that the world at large is their canvas and nothing is safe from becoming an element in their art, cabinets of wonders, and from nature. Nash Fleisher, writing in Northeast Art And Antigues, states There is much room within this art to move". hand-sewn dolls inspired by Hopi Kachinas, collage, prints and drawings. She has been making art since child-hood and went to art school at Auburn University. Her series of embroidered photographs, found object constructions and Kachina-inspired dolls have been shown in various galleries and featured in magazines and journals. She is also a prolific photographer who focuses on in magazines and journals. She is also a prolific photographer who focuses on finding scenes or settings that can be otherwise mundane, or neglected and uninteresting, but when framed in just the right way at the right moment, can be transformed into something surprising visually. Julie is drawn to geometry on the streets, to shadows that break surfaces up into shapes and to intersecting lines and angles that lead the eye to an arm, a color or to another angle.

and shaped that the eye to a ram, a color or to another angle. Dina's work encompasses a wide var-iety of media: hand-built ceramic sculpture, assemblage, other mixed media, public art, works on paper, artist's books, poetry and children's books. She grad-uated with a degree in Literature from Universidad Nacional de Cordoba in her native Argentina. At that time she was an aspiring writer but after a sudden and unexpected move to NYC, she felt uproted and speechless and while looking for a different mode of expres-sion, took a free ceramic class and was in NYC, among others, by NYC MTA's Arts & Design Program, NYC Percent for the Arts, and the Public Art Fund. She has also received numerous grants, fellowships and residencies.

received numerous grants, fellowships and residencies. In her artist's statement she writes "I conceive most of my pieces as con-temporary artifacts for a democratic mythology that includes spirituality and sensuality, as well as politics and humor. I invent and reuse icons and symbols in order to create a new visual language, for renaming inner and outer realities, for allowing different stories to emerge. I derive inspiration from tribal and ancient cultures, from tribal and ancient cultures, from different parts of the world, as well as from nature and the cityscape. Usually, I start with a concept but my pieces tend to develop along plans of their own. They are like living organisms captured in a moment within." As we find ourselves in cooler weather with sunny days, beautiful Sunsets and the "peak" of fall's most vibrant leaf change, the artists showing at Tannersville Artisan Gift Shop & Gallery are displaying their own color with art works depicting nature & Fall at its best. Our new show is aptly named "Auturn Huse" and runs September 22 to November 11, 2018 and opens with a reception on September 22 from 4:30-7 p.m.

exhibitors. One of our featured artists is Watercolorist Sheila Trautman. Her style has emerged over many years. Sheila states, "...My paintings are an expression of my feelings as well as my observations, and they should interpret an experience rather than duplicate exactly what is seen. I am often attracted by the beauty of light and shadows on a scene or by the play of contrasting colors. Nostalgic old build-ings especially intrigue me. Looking for beauty or dramatic scenes is an important part of my life as my family and friends can attest to. I can often be seen suddenly stopping to take pictures of something based in Columbia County NY, is pleased to present MAMMA MiA, the ABBA inspired musical of true love set on a romantic Greek Island. Performances are October 6-13, 2018 atthe Performing Arts Center at Taconic Hills Central School District. This is one production you definitely don't want to miss! Mamma Mia! The Musical was written by British playwright Catherine Johnson, based on the songs of ABBA composed by Benny Andersson and Björn Ulvaeus, former members of the band. The title of the musical is taken from the group's 1975 chart-topper "Mamma Mia". Ulvaeus and Andersson, who composed the original music for ABBA, were involved in the develop-ment of the show from the beginning. Singer Anni-Frid Lyngstad has been involved financially in the production and she has also been present at many of the premieres around the world. The musical includes such hits as "Super Trouper", "Lay All Your Love on Me", "Dancing Queen", "Knowing Me, Knowing Vou", "The Vinner Takes It All", "Voulez-Vous", "SOS" and the title track. Over 60 million people have seen the show, which has grossed $2 billion worldwide since its 1999 debut. A film adaptation staring Meryl Streep, Colin Firth, Pierce Brosnan, Amanda Seyfried, Christine Baranski, Stellan Skarsgård and Julie Walters was released in July 2008. The sequel, MAMMA MIA, here we go again!" was just released and is another box office smash! Performances are at 7:30pm and Sunday matinees are at 3pm. Tickets are $20 for adults, $14 for students & seniors, and $12 for groups and fami-lies. For advance reservation visit www. The TwoOfUsProductions.org or call 518-758-1648. His romary considers itself "a community of artistic dar-ed-vils that believe in the thorough reevaluation of the human super ego...confnorting conflict, engaging conversation, and sparking the processes of reconstructing/reworking." This roster of five talented artists represents a range of multigenerational, emerging to mid-career and mature artists, who value collaboration as central to their process. It is well documented that creative gestation requires psychic space and time for reflection apart from the pressues of veryday life. PRC offers choreographers and their collaborators neces-say development ti

In addition to the residency program, PRC serves as a gathering space, affording opportunities for artists to interact with the specific place, and for community residents to be invited in. PRC has hosted a series of Open Houses to welcome the public to Crows Nest. Guests take a tour with Artistic Director, Stephen Petronio, as they sip tea and experience all that the retreat has to offer. aliset against the rustic backdrop of the Art Omi Studio Bams. Since 2014, Light Into Night has set a precedent by cultivating a community of enthusiasts invested in sustaining this rich cultural legacy and enriching the quality of life in Columbia County. Past guests have raved that Light Into Night was "not only one of the best arts events in Columbia County, but also one of the most enjoyable non-profit fundraisers that they have ever been to," said Ruth Adams, Executive Director of Art Omi. By putting art and artists at the forefront, Light Into Night continues Art Omi's mission of forming community with creative expression as its common denominator, and creating a sanctuary for the artistic community that affirms the transformative quality of art. 22-30, 2018. The play chronicles the remarkable friendship between two powerful historical figures at a time when both were in extreme conflict. Directed by Regge Life and starring Michael Sean McGuinness as Ulyses S. Grant and Todd Gearhart as Mark Twain, the show will be held at PS21's new state-of-the-art black box theater, located at 2980 Noute & Si the town of Chatham. At age & 2, Ulysese Grant is bankrupted in a Wall Street swindle. His only hope to restore his honor and save his family is an offer to write his memoirs of the war. News of Grant's calamity brings his friend Mark Twain to his side. Twain makes an audacious proposal: he himself will publish forms' book and make it the biggest besteller in American history. When Grant finally agrees, he is faced with a double enemy-he is diagnosed with Herminal cancer and writes in a race with death, and he discovers an enemy close to home. Eitzabeth Diggs was inspired to write the play after reading "Personal Memoirs of U.S. Grant." She was fascinated by the firendship of the two most famous men in the country who were utterly different in temperament. Twain loved the lime-light; Grant was a mon of action with title interest in his own fame. Both were American originals. "The language is vigorous and unadorned, completely different from the style of the times," Diggs soid. Diggs was also fascinated by the rise and fall of Grant's reputation. At the time of his death, he was revered, linked to Lincoln and Washington as America's three gratest leaders. Grant's funeral was ten times the size of Lincoln's. But is repu-

century, many are restored to their former splendor by the original owners' descendants and by recent leaders in finance, media, and the arts, including the late Richard Jenrette, Jann Wenner, and Brice Marden. Aficionados of architecture and design will discover a surfiet of unconventional style and inspiration from these historic, traditional, and eclectic contemporary interiors. Architect and photographer Scott Benedict takes viewers through a journey across twen-ty-six of the renowned architect Louis I. Kahn's private and public creations in KAHNSCIOUS - Photographing Architecture on view at Hudson Hall October 27, 2018 to January 20, 2019. Going beyond documentary, Kahnscious is the culmination of an eight-year odyssey in which Benedict shares his progression through inspi-ration, delusion, exhaustion, and exhilaration at his attempt to express the immaterial aspects of Louis I. Kahn's architecture and the challenges of then photographing it. The exhibition opens on October 27 with a reception with the artist from 5-7pm, followed by an Artist Talk on November 10 with Chris Pery, Principal and Associate Professor and Associate Dean of Graduate Education at Rensselaer School of Architecture. On Saturday, November 10, the public is invited to join Benedict on an Exhibition Tour and free screening Kensselaer School of Architecture. On Saturday, November 10, the public is invited to join Benedict on an Exhibition Tour and free screening of Nathanial Kahn's Academy Award-nominated documentary about his late father, My Architect: A Son's Journey (2003). In 2016, New York City based modern dance company, Stephen Petronic Company, purchased a new home in Round Top, New York, fulfilling choreographer Stephen Petronio's dream to create a space where the creative mind can flourish. This Summer/Fall, the culmination of these efforts is becoming a reality as the Petronio Residency Center (PRC) hosts its debut resident choreographers. The inaugural residenchoreographers. The inaugural residency artists were nominated by a panel of 12 movement artists. Pamela Tatge, director of Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival were included on the panel. Final selections were made by an artist review panel consisting of Ralph Lemon, Fiko Otake, Bebe Miller, and Stephen Petronio-all leading artists in the American modern dance community.
